SUMMARY

Relevant excerpts of a transcript of a phone conversation between Defendant, Steve DOE (Advantage Homes), and Plaintiff, on August 3rd, 2006, at 3:47 PM.

TRANSCRIPT

STEVE: I mean, I knocked on the door—I had a client in the car—um, [I] knocked on the door and waited a couple of minutes. Somebody opened the door—I couldn't tell you what he looked like; I think, if memory serves, [and], I mean, again, there's no reason for me to even remember this information; [but], um, but, uh, I think he had facial hair; but, I, I can't tell you for sure... I couldn't tell ya'. Uh, I know there was a gal sitting on the couch, as well. Um, anyway, they answered the door, and, I said, "Hi!" And, I, I said, uh, "I'm hoping to show the home." And, uh, that person said that, uh...I think—and, I, again, don't quote me, because I don't remember exactly; but, something to the effect of, um, "The home is no longer for sale." I think I asked because there was no sign in front. And, I said...I asked if it was still available. And, he said, "No, I don't think it's for sale anymore"—something to that effect. And, uh, and, that was it. I mean, a very simple, brief conversation that took all [of] ten seconds. Then, I got back in the car and drove off.
